Instructions For Use

CHICKEN COOP HEATING PANEL

This radiant flat-panel heater is a safe alternative to heat lamps during the winter.

- Thermostatically controlled, radiant heat reduces the risk of frostbite to combs and feet in a well-ventilated coop.
- This panel is hot to the touch, and may burn skin with direct contact with the metal, but acceptable for use with all bedding types. (Will not exceed 176°F and is equipped with emergency over-heating shutoff).
- Keeps birds comfortable without over-heating or creating drastic, unhealthy temperature differences.
- Use in chicken coops and similar structures subject to extreme cold during winter; small outside non-climate-controlled sheds and dog houses; garages and small patios for radiant warmth; brooders.

MULTIPLE CONFIGURATIONS OF USE

Free-Standing

To use free-standing, simply push the panel legs (supplied) snugly into the slots on the side of the unit and secure with provided screws.

Horizontally

For horizontal use, simply push the legs (supplied) snugly into 4 slots on the side of the unit. The height can be adjusted to four levels using the spaced holes in the legs.
If using as a brooder, use the low temperature setting only. High setting may burn an animal with direct contact.

Wall-Mounted

Mount on the side of the wall with provided hanging brackets. Make sure to position the metal panel side outwards.
